ALLEGED ASSAULT ON BOARD SHIP. Charles W. Carr. second mate on board the American barque Adom W. Spies, was brought up, on recound, charged with assaulting one of the erew, named Carl Carlson, who is at present confined in the Lunatic Asylum. Colonel Withers, U. S. Consul, occupied a seat on the Bench. Dr. Atkinson, Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital, was called and said-On the 26th January the patient Carlson was admitted to the Hospital. He was suffering from an obscure aervous disorder. In addition to this he complained of pain in the head, and there was also a slight weakness of the right arm. The left side of the face was slightly paralysed. On asking how long he had been ill he said he had been ill since the night he came into Hong.

kong. He also stated that on that night be was assaulted by the second mate of the ship, and that since that night he had been sick and vomitting, and that he had been "knocked silly." The symptoms I have described subsided in a few days. On the 28th I reported this to Dr. Ayres, on his visit to the Hospital, and be told me I had better communicate with Col. Withers, the American Consul, mentioning the statement made by the patient. The patient told me he had been kicked on the head and that he had been hit with the handle of something which I understood to be a mop. I looked for marks but saw none of any kind. Such blows might or might not leave marks. He was in " weak state of mind when admitted. On the 14th Feb. his symptoms became worse, an event that may happen in the course of the disease, and, on The start was a most unfortunate one for the account of this we transferred him to the Lunatic. Asylum. I saw bim yesterday. His state of mind is still weak, but his bodily condition is ever, a good stand was made; both played very in these cases, his memory is bad. There is another carefully, and it was not until just before tifflu | case admitted to the Hospital from the same ship,

Dr. Atkinson-I have made no communication to the Police about the case whatever. reported the case to the American Consul at Dr. Ayres's recommendation, but I have taken no steps at all to communicate with the Police.

"His Worship-It has nothing to do with you Dr. Atkinson-Nothing. His Worship-You say there were no marks blows on the patient. Dr. Atkin on-None. The symptoms which I described, the pain in the head and so on, which subsided in a few days, might have been caused by blows. The patient spoke about having received blows, and that is the reason why the case His Worship-Medically speaking have you any reason to doubt that an assault took place? Dr. Atkinson-No. His Worship—And you look upon the subidence of his symptoms as confirmatory of that? Dr. Atkinson-I look upon it as indicataccepted, and the innings closed for 75. Lyne ing that the man was suffering from some temporary injury to the brain.

Colonel Withers, the U.S. Consul, said-When

supposed the man must have been crazy when he shipped as he was out of his mind one or two days after he shipped. He said a doctor had examined him and thought he was imbecile. Having been a medical practitioner myself. I asked nim to bring up the man to me. He was brought up, and on examining him I came to the mentory was very defective, in fact I may say he had none. He could not remember where he was shipped, and made many contradictory statewents, some of which were absurd. He complained of a dull pain in his head. I asked him if he had received any injury to the head. He said he had not. On asking the captain if he had ever known the man to have got any injury to his head, the captain said he had once seen him have a hard fall on the deck and that the second mate raised him up. The master said he went forward and asked Carlson if he was much burt, and he said he was not, he would be all right in a few minutes. Seeing the man was utterly unfitted for service and suffering from a nervous disease, I discharged him and sent him to the hospital. He made no complaint against the second mate. It was to me he should have made it if he had one to make. Seamen know that they have a right to make such complaints to me, and so far from discouraging that I encourage it all I can, and have all complaints investigated. I don't remember that any of the rest of the crew were present when I examined Carlson. No complaint was made by any of the others to Carlson being assault d. There was a charge of assault made by another man on his own behalf against the mate That man was one of the witnesses in this case. I asked this man if he had known the mate to commit any not of violence to any of its others and he said no. A day or two afterwards I had a letter from Dr. Atkinson informing me that he had been told Carlson

it. I did not inquire of any of the rest of the crew whether he had been assaulted. When inquiring into the other case of assault several of the crew were present and heard me inquire if the mate had ever assaulted any other man. I should think they might have told me if he had. I did not speak to the second mate himself about this assault until yesterday, when I asked him if he did strike the man and he said had been kicked on the bead and also struck on the head with a pico of timber. I made further inquiries, but could find out nothing about

William Emerson, late seaman on board the barque, said-I made a charge of assault against the prisoner to the American Consul. The assault took place on the high seas. I was then asked if the mate had assaulted anybody else besides myself. I replied that he had frequently done so. I think I mentioned then that he had assaulted Carlson, but I cannot quite remember. He did frequently assault men. He often assaulted Carlson before this. I have seen him strike bim with a rope's end and with his hand. This is the only occasion on which he has assaulted him inside Hongkong waters. In my case the prisoner was fixed a dollar. I was struck on the plaint to the Consul about having been assulted. I did not hear the Consul ask whether the mate had assaulted anybody else besides him. I was not present all the time the case was being investigated. I have seen Carlson assaulted on several occasions, but only this once in Hongkong waters. From where Carlson was standing when he was struck he would be easily knecked down. It would not require a very hard blow if he was taken unawares. Robort Fisher, assistant at the Sailor's Home, said-I was on board the Adam W. mate was superintending the work. I did not see Carlson helping to take in sail. I was within ten yards of the pinrail of the mainmast while sail was being taken in. I did not see anybody fall from the pinrai!. If anybody had fallen off I must have seen it. I have heard 74 that a man tumbled off, not in port, but at sea. The second mate was in my view all the time. He never struck one blow. I must have seen it

Inspector Cradock said he had to complain of the witness Fisher having inteferred with the 77 witnesses for the prosecution and tried to keep them from coming into court.

It is a fact that he was fined a dollar for assaulting Emerson. have had no difficulties with the crew. two first witnesses are steady men so far as know. The second mate is engaged till our months from the time we left. James Wilson, re-called, said-I had not said anything about this affair before the inspector. spoke to me, as I thought it would be no use. This concluded the evidence. His Worship said-This case has come before me under such neonliar circumstances that have felt great difficulty in knowing bow to deal with it. I have now gone into the whole matter carofully, and the only part of it that concerns this Court is the alleged assault in Hongkong. As to any treatment that the man Carlson may have received on the high seas, that is not within this jurisdiction of this Court and is not for me to deal with except in so far as it might bear ou any punishment I might have to inflict on the prisoner for the assault in Hongkong. I was led to expect that Dr. Atkinson had observed various symptoms which led him to suppose that the man had been very seriously assaulted. The evidence of Dr. Atkinson as given shows nothing of that kind. Also I have to remember that this alleged as ault took place on or about the 22nd of January, and no notice is taken of it until now, nearly six weeks afterwards. I think it is scarcely fair to the prisoner that he should he placed in that position. If an assault has been committed it ought to have been looked into at once, when there was some chance of ascertaining the actual facts of the case, and also given the prisoner an opportunity of calling any witnesses he might wish to call and who are not to be found now. I may say that after hearing the evidence of the different witnesses I certainly think an assault was committed. One knows

NOW ON SALE. IMPERIAL QUARTO. IN NGLISH, AND CHINESE! DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical pervice

this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years bean compelled to coin to express the numerous obof foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best Friday, on account of coaling. principle hitherto attained. The typography [3] catties. of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of given of any stoppages [4 to 5 catties. | terized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words whichhave one general meaning. Of these examples THAS. HEIDSIECK'S this work contains more than five times as many se any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which yery few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but he invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two housand large quarto pages.
